

A Call for a Collective Action How to Join and Access Social Circles

TODOS is joining other Mathematics Education organizations in “A Collective Call to Action.” Since Equity, Excellence, and Social Justice are the reasons why many members joined TODOS, as part of the “Collective Call to Action,” an online discussion has begun. This discussion takes place on one of the powerful pieces of the TODOS website: Social Circles. The circles will provide a means for members to engage in thoughtful discussions on various readings chosen by participating organizations on the collective action.

The following steps will enable you to join the circle(s).

1. Go to <http://www.todos-math.org> and click on the red Member login button. If you don't remember your login information, select Forgot your username or password? to request it.
2. Once you logon, you should be directed to the “Member Landing Page,” which shows your nametag. If not, select Members' Area, one of the blue links under Quick Links, and you will be directed to the “Member Landing Page.”
3. You will see five links below your “name tag” – Click on “My Community”. This will open a window with five tabs.
4. Hover over “My Features” and click on Circles.
5. Click on All Circles.

Once you are there, you will see TODOS' circles. Only members of TODOS have access to these circles and can read the discussions. By joining a circle, and we DO hope you will join, you will be able to add your thoughts to a discussion or start a new discussion. The September 2016 Readings Circle is the first month's reading in A Collective Call to Action.

We will be adding a new circle each month for the monthly readings.

I look forward to connecting with you online.

Sincerely,

Bob McDonald
